

Sunrise to Moonlight

Well-known for its appeal to artists, the Cape's incredible natural light is a draw to everyone who watches the sun rise over the water and the moon make its appearance in a darkening sky. Now with longer days fading slowly into night, Eastham photographer Brian Morris captures the famous natural light.

A canoe catches the first morning rays of sunshine in North Chatham.

Above: Dawn breaks in vivid color over North Chatham.
Right: North Chatham's still waters shortly before the town awakens.

Left: A dory, awaiting the day, is reflected in the calm water of Chatham's Oyster River. Below: The strong outlines of several of the remaining beach camps along Chatham's North Beach are framed against the sunset.

A full moon rises over Clafin
Landing in Chatham.